

Figure S1. Changes in the optical density of cultures of E. coli cells containing wild-type P1 or the P1 mutant depleted of the endolysin gene (lyz), upon induction of P1 lytic development. The graph shows the average results of measurement of changes in the optical density of cell cultures in at least three independent experiments. The legend applies to both charts. The bars represent the standard deviation.