

Supplement figure 1: Typical example of an ultrahigh-resolution optical coherence tomography image showing a cross section through the cornea. The yellow box depicts a magnified image of the corneal epithelial tissue and the precorneal tear film.