

Editorial

Announcing the 2018 IJFS Travel Awards for Ph.D Students

Nicholas Apergis

Department of Banking and Financial Management, University of Piraeus, Piraeus 18534, Greece; napergis@unipi.gr

Received: 16 March 2018; Accepted: 16 March 2018; Published: 17 March 2018

Dear participants of the 2018 Travel Award competition organized by the IJFS:

I take the opportunity through this Editorial Letter to congratulate all the candidates of the 2018 Travel Award competition organized by the IJFS. I would also like to take this opportunity to explain that, for the Committee that reached the final decision, all participants were characterized by high qualifications, and the merit of their work, and that of the scientific conference in which they were planning to participate, was beyond any doubt.

I extend my congratulations to the successful candidate, but thanks must also go to everyone who stood. It takes courage and commitment to put oneself forward for evaluation and the possibility of not winning. The reward of your hard work will be a career full of opportunities.

As far as the winner of this competition is concerned, Dr. Hye-Jin Cho of University of Paris 1 - Panthéon Sorbonne, please accept the Committee's, all Members' of the Editorial Board and the Publisher's sincere congratulations on your success and may this small token of contribution from our side significantly assist you in accomplishing all of your career goals.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Nicholas Apergis

Professor of MacroFinance and The Editor-in-Chief of the International Journal of Financial Studies

© 2018 by the author. Licensee MDPI, Basel, Switzerland. This article is an open access article distributed under the terms and conditions of the Creative Commons Attribution (CC BY) license (<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>).