Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Diabetology (ISSN 2673-4540) is an international, scientific, peer-reviewed, open access journal of diabetes research and is published quarterly online by MDPI. One area this journal could have a particular focus on is behavioral modification and support in diabetes. There are few open access journals that address this area, which is still important, despite much improved medication. This journal also have a particular focus on pragmatic trials conducted by individuals or groups of practitioners with a common goal of translating the outcomes from controlled trials into practical advice for individual patients, whether this is psychological support, nutritional advice, drug therapy or exercise.
