Diagnosis and Management in Trauma Surgery

Message from the Guest Editor

Medical diagnostics are the basis for therapeutic success in trauma surgery. Delayed and inaccurate diagnostics could lead to unnecessary pain, resulting in impairment and substantial economic burden.

Therefore, diagnostics have an impact not only on individuals but also on healthcare systems. However, in the recent past trauma surgery diagnostics and the resulting management have improved and change is ongoing. The primary goal of this Special Issue is to show the recent advantages in the science and practice of diagnostic and treatment modalities in trauma surgery. Therefore, it would be a great honor if you, as a leading scientist in the field, could contribute to this Special Issue, Diagnosis and Management in Trauma Surgery. It is our privilege and pleasure to invite you (or one of your coworkers) to submit an article on this topic.
