Diagnosis of Spinal Tumors

Message from the Guest Editor

Primary and metastatic tumors of the spine are demanding lesions in terms of diagnosis and management because they are often asymptomatic or have non-specific characteristics. Delayed diagnosis is not very unusual, and sometimes spinal instability or neurological compromise may be the presenting symptom. Optimal diagnosis and treatment of spine tumors require a multidisciplinary approach and thorough knowledge of both spinal surgery and musculoskeletal oncology. This Special Issue highlights the relevance of spinal tumors, particularly related to diagnostic parameters and innovative approaches.
