

Special Issue

Random Forests for Forest Ecology

Message from the Guest Editor

Random Forests has been applied to data in almost every area of research in which regression, survival analysis, and classification are used. One of the earliest published papers (Prasad et al. 2006) was an application of Random Forests to forest data. For this Special Issue, we are seeking papers in all areas of application of Random Forests to forest and remote sensing data, including comparison with other methods. We are particularly interested in novel uses of prediction, model selection, and visualization of relationships between response and predictor variables.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Forests (ISSN 1999-4907) is an international and cross-disciplinary, scholarly forestry journal. The distinguished editorial board and refereeing process ensures the highest degree of scientific rigor and review of all published articles. Original research articles and timely reviews are released online, with unlimited free access. Our goal is to have Forests be recognized as one of the foremost publication outlets for high quality, leading edge research in this broad and diverse field. We therefore invite you to be one of our authors, and in doing so share your important research findings with the global forestry community.
