Message from the Editor-in-Chief

While food science and technologies and nutritional sciences and dietetics have a long history, the gastronomic science and studies concerning what/how/why we actually eat on our plate is in its infancy. The journal has the path-breaking scope to build a robust bridge between biosciences, social science, and humanities aimed at investigating the complex conglomerate we call “gastronomy”.

Editor-in-Chief

Prof. Dr. Andrea Pieroni

Aims

Gastronomy (ISSN 2813-513X) is an international, peer-reviewed, open access journal on gastronomy and culinary arts. It publishes reviews, research papers and short communications. Our aim is to publish papers exploring all aspects related to gastronomic sciences and studies, such as food science, history and ethnography of foods, culinary science, cooking techniques, nutritional facts, dietetic cultures and taste sciences.
