

Special Issue

Immunotherapy for Hematological and Solid Cancers

Message from the Guest Editor

Dear colleague, The objective of this special issue will be to provide to an overview of the latest developments in the field of immunotherapy for 1) hematological malignancies and 2) various form of solid cancers. This will encompass the field of drug-based immunotherapy (i.e., checkpoint inhibitors) and immune cell-based therapy with a focus on Chimeric Antigen Receptor therapy (i.e., CAR T, CAR NK), dendritic cell therapy, as well as Tumor infiltrated lymphocytes (TiLs). The special issue will explore the latest innovation in CAR molecular design performed to improve the specific targeting of cancer cells and the effort done to address the major weakness of the technology (i.e., T-cell exhaustion, tumor accessibility).

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
