

Special Issue

Cardiac Surgery: Outcomes, Management and Critical Care

Message from the Guest Editors

The analysis of the outcome in cardiac surgery is fundamental. Moreover, every guideline in cardiology/cardiac surgery highlights the importance of the heart team; in other words, the management of the treatment is as or more important than the treatment itself. A Special Issue in this field can help move the debate forward and inform the choice of the best treatments—especially in fields where the guidelines do not give us a clear indication.
