

Special Issue

Small Molecule Inhibitors of Polymerases Involved in Human Diseases

Message from the Guest Editors

In this context, we are proposing a new Special Issue titled "Small Molecule Inhibitors of Polymerases Involved in Human Diseases". This Special Issue welcomes the submission of original research, communications, and review manuscripts focusing on polymerases as targets for therapy, novel inhibitor and drug discovery strategies, as well as structural and mechanistic characterization of relevant polymerase–inhibitor complexes for human diseases.

- DNA polymerases
- RNA polymerases
- antibiotics
- antiviral
- anticancer

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to experimental organic chemistry, and now in its 25th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on multidisciplinary topics bridging biochemistry, biophysics and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting edge fields in all these areas.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Reaxys, CaPlus / SciFinder, MarinLit, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Chemistry, Multidisciplinary) / CiteScore - Q1 (Chemistry (miscellaneous))

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 15.1 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.8 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2024).
