Photonic Liposomes

Message from the Guest Editor

The Pharmaceutics Issue on “Photonic Liposomes” will cover all aspects of the interaction of photons with molecules embedded in liposomes that can respond to the photons to become functional, especially for therapeutic purposes. Such liposomes may respond to photonic activation to release their contents, which may include anti-cancer drugs, or certain photosensitizers in the liposomes targeted to tumors may generate reactive oxygen species upon activation and kill cancer cells. We welcome articles that describe the biophysics of photon-induced changes in the molecular structure of liposomal lipids or focus on the therapeutic application of either type of photonic liposomes. We expect that the Issue will include both original research articles and reviews. Prof. Nejat Duzgunes
