10th Anniversary of Processes: Women's Special Issue Series

Message from the Guest Editors

We are delighted to present this special collection of articles highlighting the achievements of women scientists in process/system-related research in chemistry, biology, material, energy, environment, food, pharmaceutical, manufacturing and allied engineering fields from all around the world. This Special Issue is devoted to presenting research performed by early- and advanced-career female scientists. We cordially invite you to submit your work performed across all areas of process/system research and present your latest discoveries in classical and advanced processes fields such as chemistry, biology, material, energy, environment, food, pharmaceutical, manufacturing and allied engineering. This Issue is aimed to spotlight the contributions of female researchers in the development of process/system-related research. These are only some of the topics of interest, and you are welcome to add new ones and contribute to a high-impact Special Issue.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute either a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Processes (ISSN 2227-9717). Processes is published in open access format – research articles, reviews, and other content are released on the internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited, free access to the content. As an open access journal, Processes is supported by the authors and their institutes through the payment of article processing charges (APCs) for accepted papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.
