

Special Issue

Emerging Technologies for Biorefining, Food and Environmental Applications

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue will highlight the importance of emerging techniques for biorefining, food, and environmental applications. It welcomes both original and review contributions related to applications and case studies using emerging technologies, including membrane-based processes, for the biorefining, separation, concentration, and recovery of high-added value and non-desired compounds contained in by-products from industries. Topics include, but are not limited to the following:

- Biorefining of biomass feedstock
- Upgrading techniques for foods and bio-products (e.g., fuels, chemicals, power, among others)
- Process intensification
- Reduction of undesired compounds into the environment

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute either a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Processes (ISSN 2227-9717). Processes is published in open access format – research articles, reviews, and other content are released on the internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited, free access to the content. As an open access journal, Processes is supported by the authors and their institutes through the payment of article processing charges (APCs) for accepted papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Editor-in-Chief
