

Special Issue

Metal Nanoparticles as Catalysts for Green Applications

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue collects original research papers or reviews focused on investigations on metal nanoparticles as catalysts for green applications. All applications which deals with designing chemical products and processes that generate and use less (or preferably no) hazardous substances, by applying the principles of green chemistry, are welcome for this special issue. Topics include, but are not limited to:- Development of homogeneous, heterogeneous, enzymatic catalysts for green applications - Investigations on photocatalytic processes -Innovative and sustainable syntheses of catalysts - Hydrogenations, oxidations, isomerizations, hydrolysis reactions for biomass valorization -New sustainable processes for the synthesis of important building blocks.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

You are invited to contribute either a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Processes (ISSN 2227-9717). Processes is published in open access format – research articles, reviews, and other content are released on the internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited, free access to the content. As an open access journal, Processes is supported by the authors and their institutes through the payment of article processing charges (APCs) for accepted papers. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.
