Benefit Sharing in the Arctic: Extractive Industries and Arctic People

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim of this Special Issue is to provide a comprehensive view of the benefit sharing and compensation mechanisms for the indigenous peoples of the Arctic and Sub-Arctic due to industrial development. The editors welcome papers within the following topics:

- Benefit-sharing frameworks in the Arctic.
- Corporate social responsibility and the benefit sharing of extractive industries in the Arctic.
- Benefit sharing and international and national legislation.
- The practice of implementing legislation to support Indigenous and local interests.
- The methodology for assessing the losses of indigenous peoples of the North and mechanisms for their compensation.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Responsible prosperity is underpinned by sustained access to resources. Resources, publishes excellent science and scholarship which transforms understanding, practices and policies for conserving all natural resources—from water, land and air; to plant and animal biodiversity; to minerals and energy and their interconnection across scales. Significantly, we invite high quality submissions from natural and social sciences.

Build impact from your research by submitting to Resources, an open-access journal connecting you with data, insights, ideas and evidence needed to shape a better world.
