Recent Trends in the Separation of Natural Products and Pharmaceuticals

Message from the Collection Editors

In general terms, “natural products” can be defined as all compounds that are synthesized/produced by living organisms (plants, animals, etc.). The importance of natural products has been recognized for thousands of years, and a considerable fraction of new drugs is still based on the discovery of natural biogenic molecules. In the Topical Collection “State-of-the-Art in Analysis of Natural Products and Pharmaceuticals”, we welcome original research and review articles on the development and application of analytical methods in both natural product and pharmaceutical science [.....] For further reading, please follow the link to the Special Issue Website at:

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Separations offers the scientific community a high-quality, open-access journal option with rapid time-to-publication without any sacrifice of a rigorous peer-review process. We invite contributions ranging from fundamental characterization and instrumentation development through application of techniques to shed light on a broad spectrum of separation science needs. Since inception, Separations, has become unique in its combination of rapid publication and thorough scientific content. We invite you to consider us for your next contribution.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 12.4 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.8 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2024).

Recognition of Reviewers:

reviewers who provide timely, thorough peer-review reports receive vouchers entitling them to a discount on the APC of their next publication in any MDPI journal, in appreciation of the work done.
