Heritage, Cultural Tourism and Sustainability: Meaningful Travel for a Green Planet

Message from the Guest Editors

Recently, tourism has been experiencing unprecedented perturbations. First, the COVID-19 pandemic and lockdowns, and now the energy crisis related to Russia's aggression against Ukraine, as well as increasingly noticeable climate change impacts, have led to the need to redefine the directions of tourism development. Additionally, the effects of tourism itself—gentrification of historic town centres, and environmental issues related to cruisers and flying—force us to reflect on its future.
