

Special Issue

Behavior and Marketing for Sustainability

Message from the Guest Editors

We would like to invite you to contribute to SI “Behavior and Marketing for Sustainability”. The scope of this Special Issue covers the analysis of the main drivers of behavioral changes and the application of advanced marketing tools to promote sustainable consumption. The main focus of this Special Issue is the demonstration of the possibilities of application of SEM-based multivariate techniques for exploratory and confirmatory factor analysis, and conditional process modeling to explore the direct and indirect relationships between exogenous, moderating, and endogenous variables. The main purpose of SI is to collect novel empirical and theoretical studies providing new insights into the application of behavioral theories for developing an efficient marketing strategy to promote sustainable consumption and sustainable lifestyles.
