

Special Issue

Entrepreneurship and the Sustainable Development Goals for the Business-Health Relationship

Message from the Guest Editors

This research topic is particularly interested in manuscripts that offer new perspectives and insights into the relationship between sustainability, business and health, using a psychological lens to look at the framework of the psychology of sustainability and sustainable development. We encourage a focus on: how the 17 Sustainable Development Goals in connection with entrepreneurship will shape the health and productivity of individuals and organizations.
