

Special Issue

Vaccines against HIV and Other Viruses

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue aims to include high-quality papers on topics within the field of HIV-1. We will consider manuscripts that investigate anti-viral and anti-HIV immunity, immunological responses to potential HIV vaccine antigens, the testing of HIV vaccine candidates in animals and humans, the delivery methods of HIV vaccine antigens, studies on vaccine adjuvants related to HIV vaccine development, and investigations of HIV vaccine strategies that aim to raise broadly neutralizing antibodies. It is our pleasure to invite you to contribute an original research paper or a comprehensive review article for peer review and possible publication in Vaccines.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Vaccines (ISSN 2076-393X) has had a 6-year history of publishing peer-reviewed state of the art research that advances the knowledge of immunology in human disease protection. Immunotherapeutics, prophylactic vaccines, immunomodulators, adjuvants and the global differences in regulatory affairs are some of the highlights of the research published that have shaped global health. Our open access policy allows all researchers and interested parties to immediately scrutinize the rigorous evidence our publications have to offer. We are proud to present the work and perspectives of many to contribute to future decisions concerning human health.
